LITERATURE IN FOCUS

The CERN Library is introducing a new series of talks/discussions called "Literature in focus". The idea is to bring scientific authors, editors and publishers together with their readers, and in addition allow specialists working in related fields to get a flavour of what is happening in science and in scientific publishing.

These intimate events will be organized in a corner of the Central Library reading room. Speakers are kindly requested not to use any type of technical equipment, such as microphones or overhead projectors, which might distance the audience.

The first speaker will be project engineer Marco Fabbrichesi presenting the state of art of the very interesting initiative "The Journal of High Energy Physics"

JHEP is a scientific journal written, run, and distributed by electronic means. It is made possible by the existence of the World Wide Web. The purpose of the journal is to explore the new media and take advantage of their innovative qualities: the rapidity of communication, broad diffusion, and low costs.

Les membres du personnel du CERN qui désirent se faire vacciner, peuvent se présenter au service médical (bât. 57, rez-de-chaussée), sans rendez-vous MUNIS D'UNE DOSE DE VACCIN.

Le service médical n'assure pas les vaccinations pour les membres de la famille et les fonctionnaires retraités, qui doivent prendre contact avec leur médecin de famille habituel.

Note from the CERN Medical Service

FLU VACCINATION

CERN staff aged 50 or over are recommended to have influenza vaccinations. Vaccination is particularly important for those suffering from chronic lung, cardio-vascular or kidney problems, for diabetics and those convalescing after grave medical conditions or serious surgical operations. Ideally, they should be vaccinated between 1st and 30th October. Members of the CERN personnel who wish to be vaccinated may go to the Medical Service (ground-floor, bldg. 57) without prior appointment, but THEY MUST BE IN POSSESSION OF A DOSE OF VACCINE.

The Medical Service will not administer vaccines for family members or retired staff members, who must contact their regular family doctor.
